

United States[®] Census 2010

Update from the Census Bureau

Did You Receive a Census Form With an Incorrect Address?
Here's what to do...

If the City and/or Zip Code are incorrect but the street address is correct:

1. Complete the form
2. Correct the City Name and/or Zip Code
3. Mail back the form

If your form has the wrong city name or Zip code, the actual location of your address has been verified for accuracy and assigns your data to the correct geographic area.

1. The address on your census form or advance letter may not list the city name you identify with or are used to seeing on your mail. This is a result of an efficiency cost-saving measure that streamlines how the forms are sorted and delivered to you by the U.S. Postal Service. However, it will not affect which city, town or block your household's response will be assigned to.
